

HANDOUT #3: LEARNING CHECK - ARIA

Aria is described by her mother as an alert baby – no sound goes unnoticed! Not only does she turn and look for the sounds, she is beginning to make sounds of her own, trying to imitate sounds she hears others make. Aria’s exploration of the world doesn’t stop with sounds – she is also very focused on the different gestures other people make, such as pointing.

What skills should her mother look for in Aria’s next developmental steps? Check all that apply.

- ☐ Ignores her name being said
- ☐ Copies gestures she sees adults make
- ☐ Prefers to play by herself
- ☐ Looks at pictures or objects when named

---

Notes: